Whole School, Whole Community, Whole Child

Health, mental health, and education affect individuals, society, and the economy. We must work together whenever possible to coordinate effective supports. Schools are a perfect setting for this collaboration. At Lincoln we embrace the WSCC Model.

Lincoln High School Student Supports

All SEL interventions are listed in NREPP as evidence-based programs or have been identified as Best Practices by major professional organizations

*Research-based methodology; LHS effectiveness studies available upon request

Tier One Interventions are programs that all students may access. About 80% of students at Lincoln perform well with these “universal” supports.

Tier Two Interventions are programs that about 20% of students might need in order to succeed academically and social/emotionally at Lincoln. Students access Tier Two interventions through referrals to the Student Support Team and parent permission.

Tier Three Interventions are programs that about 5% of Lincoln students require in order to make adequate academic progress. Students access Tier Three interventions through the Student Support Team and/or Special Education referral and evaluation.

Lincoln’s Academic Programs are reviewed for effectiveness for all students, for students by race, and for students by disability status. Information on Lincoln’s academic support programs and effectiveness can be found on the Lincoln Counseling Center website

Lincoln’s Social/Emotional Learning Programs are assessed for effectiveness yearly. Information on social and emotional learning programs may be accessed at the Lincoln Counseling Center School Psychologists Corner: www.pps.k12.or.us/schools/lincoln/1674.htm.
