AL: Also known as Asynchronous Learning. Students check-in with the teacher for ten minutes, and then students work on content. Teachers are available for the first 45 min of the class to help students.

Small Group Instruction (SGI): During Asynchronous Learning, teachers may pull students into small group learning to provide challenge, enrichment, support or extra instruction.

Applied Learning: Learning time where students are online, actively engaged in completing work, practicing with content, preparing for lessons, and/or are working with other students.

Office Hours: When teachers are free for students to “drop in” to ask questions or get additional assistance.

Live Classes: Students will be marked present for participating in the class

AL/SGI: Students will be marked present for participating in video check ins, small group learning, posting work to Canvas, or communicating with teachers directly.

How will I be graded?

Classes will be graded with a letter grade. With the 4x4 schedule, you will earn 0.5 credits for your 4 classes each quarter. Teachers will prioritize grading assignments tied to core content standards.
