HUMAN FIRST

What does it mean to shed our labels and be seen as human first? Not student, not teacher, not job, gender, or age: but human. This is the question explored by an exciting new play written and directed by award-winning playwright Matthew B. Zrebski along with the students of Wilson High School. A production of Kaiser Permanente's Educational Theatre Program, in collaboration with Oregon Children's Theatre, this unique theatrical experience features professional actors performing alongside Wilson High School students, excavating the complex issues related to mental well being, identity, and community.

Please join us for this inaugural production, the culmination of an 8-week artist-in-residence program. See below for more information about the residency, and about how to bring Human First to your school.

When: Thursday, May 21st at 7:00 pm
Where: Cosgrove Auditorium at Wilson High School
1151 SW Vermont St Portland, OR
Admission: Free
Run time: One hour
