Bike to School Day allows participants to celebrate the joy of active commuting while building a sense of community and school spirit. The event also brings attention to the importance of creating safe routes to school. More than 60 percent of past Walk and Bike to School Day organizers said their events led to policy or environmental changes in their communities.

If you're looking for inspiration for ways to celebrate during the pandemic, check out this list of event ideas created specifically for 2021 and the Bike to School Day 2020 annual report.

While May 5 was this year's official date, communities are welcome to celebrate any day in May. For more information on Bike to School Day, visit <http://www.walkbiketoschool.org/> #BiketoSchoolDay.

May is Asian American & Pacific Islander Heritage Month

During the Month of May and beyond, we need to work and celebrate the contributions of Asian Americans & Pacific Islanders in this country and the world around us.

We need to also take time to recognize the ongoing hate toward Asian Americans & Pacific Islanders. This hate has increased since the February 2020 and can be heard and seen across the country. One way to fight this hate is to celebrate Asian Americans & Pacific Islanders. Below are some links to help you and your family celebrate and learn more about the AAPI cultures in our community and country.
