The relative rate is a comparison of the rate of major discipline referrals for each non-White student group compared to the rate for White students. For example, if Hispanic students have a relative rate of 2.3, that means that group of students was 2.3 times more likely to have a discipline referral resulting in an expulsion or out-of-school suspension than White students in that school. This reports reflects unduplicated counts of students. Individual students with multiple referrals are counted only one once as an individual.
