How to Use this Guide

The Portland Public Schools Resource Guide: A Guide for New Arrivals to Portland and the Pacific Northwest was specifically produced to help welcome new hires from specific ethnic communities to Portland and Portland Public Schools. This guide shares some of the people, organizations and services that are available to you in the greater Portland area: specifically those of you from the African; African American; Arab & Middle Eastern & Muslim; Asian/Pacific Islander; Latino; Native American and Russian communities.

We hope that this Guide will help you learn what an interesting and welcoming city Portland is—both for living and working. It is not intended to be all inclusive—there are so many activities here in “The City of Roses” that it would be impossible to list everything—but rather it’s a resource to help you to start “developing community” in your new hometown.

Some general pointers for using this guide are:

- The page numbers in the Table of Contents are hyperlinks. Clicking on the number will take you directly to that page.
- General information for ALL ethnic groups is on pages 1-34.
- Each major ethnic group in Portland Public Schools has a separate section with listings of: Activities and Events; Media and More; Organizations; Religion; Restaurants; Shopping and Personal Services; and Social Services that are available in the Portland Metropolitan area.
- To help you learn more about Oregon, there are also some listings outside of the four counties surrounding Portland.
- Each entry gives a brief description of the organization or service.
- Over 95% of the entries have at least one hyperlink that will lead you to more information.
- Whenever possible, we have used the organization’s own website, rather than a third party source.
- Occasionally there are listings that do not have a hyperlink, in which case we’ve provided a phone number and/or address to help provide you with access.

Most of the entries were obtained via Internet and consequently may have some inaccuracies, depending on how recently the website was updated. Should you find any mistakes or a change of information has occurred, please notify Loretta Benjamin-Samuels in the Human Relations Office at lbenjami@pps.net Please be sure to give the specific entry’s page number, heading and the correction.

Thank you for deciding to make Portland your home and for being a part of the village that helps to raise our children. Welcome to Portland!

About Portland Public Schools

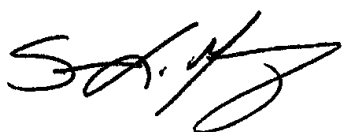

Dear Professional Educator,

I would like to take the opportunity to welcome you to the Portland Public Schools! We are very pleased that you have chosen to work and live in our community. Our beautiful urban and rural space, the peaceful nature of our area and citizens' involvement make Portland a caring and friendly community.

To assist our newly hired Employees with becoming acquainted with City of Portland, we have created the Portland Public Schools Community Resource Guide. This guide is a resource that is intended to provide information on communities, organizations and services available in the greater Portland area. You will find information on community events, recreational activities, parks, and much more in the greater Portland area.

If there is anything that we can do to assist you with your transition, please be sure to contact the Human Resources Department. Welcome again to Portland Public Schools and the community.

Activities and Events

Visitor Information Center has over 300 brochures with “sights to see and things to do” in Portland, surrounding areas and Oregon including restaurants, sports, activities for the kids and more. In-house volunteers answer your questions and help with activity research. Official Travel Oregon Guides are available.

January

Fertile Ground Festival Creative development is not only about product, but also process, as demonstrated by the Portland Area Theatre Alliance’s annual Fertile Ground Festival of New Works. The non-curated collection boasts world premieres of new projects and everything from dance, to comedy, to film—in true Portland fashion.

February

Chinese New Year Celebration Several events commemorate the biggest celebration of the year for nearly 40,000 Oregonians of Chinese descent. The two-week celebration at Portland's Lan Su Chinese Garden includes traditional lion and dragon dances, musical and martial arts performances, feng shui talks and plenty of activities and crafts for kids — plus a three-night exhibition of more than 300 hanging and floating lanterns, specially crafted for the New Year. A popular Chinese New Year Cultural Fair is also held at the Oregon Convention Center.

Portland Jazz Festival Timed to coincide with Black History Month, the Portland Jazz Festival features performances around the city, including ticketed headline concerts by nationally acclaimed artists, free shows and a range of educational opportunities. Portland's vibrant jazz scene of the '40s and '50s was centered in an area known as "JumpTown," and though development has changed the landscape, local jazz legends remain in Portland, performing and nurturing new local talent like 2011 Best New Artist Grammy winner Esperanza Spalding.

March

Portland Dining Month March is Dining Month in Portland, making it an ideal time for frugal foodies to visit the city. All month long, select restaurants offer $29 three-course menus every day of the week. In 2014, more than 100 top restaurants participated, including Paley's Place — home to "Iron Chef" winner Vitaly Paley; James Beard Award finalist Chathy Whims' Oven and Shaker; the lauded Bluehour; Clyde Common and more. In addition to being the best time to eat your way around the city, Portland Dining Month donates money for each reservation made through OpenTable to the Oregon Food Bank. Check back in January for more information about Portland Dining Month 2015.

April

Bridgetown Comedy Festival local comedians and fans banded together in 2008 to ensure that Portland didn't miss out on the burgeoning golden age of stand-up comedy in America. The festival quickly caught the attention of top names like Patton Oswalt and Janeane Garofalo, and has become one of the nation's funniest and fastest-growing comedy festivals.

June

Portland Rose Festival More than 100 years old, The Portland Rose Festival, second largest rose festival in the USA, is the official festival of the City of Portland, offering three weeks of family events. Highlights include the Rose Festival Grand Floral Parade, the Starlight Parade, the waterfront carnival for families, dragon boat races, concerts and fireworks.

The Junior Parade the nation's oldest and largest children's parade, is filled with music from elementary and middle school marching bands featuring the greater Portland/Vancouver metro area. Children come from all parts of the city to join in with homemade fun: dressing in costume, transforming wagons into floats, decorating their bikes with colorful flowers, or just parading with their pets (and parents!)

July

Waterfront Blues Festival, the largest blues festival west of the Mississippi River held annually during Independence Day week, celebrated its 25th anniversary in 2012. Downtown Portland's Waterfront Park sets the stage with top national acts, more than 125 performances on five stages, and a large fireworks display on July 4th. Bring canned foods to this Oregon Food Bank fundraiser, blankets, low lawn chairs & a picnic basket.

August

Bridge Pedal This annual bike ride across Portland's bridges cements Portland's bike-friendly status as a total of 11 bridges partially close to cars, affording bicyclists rare views, and a choice of relaxed rides—ranging in distance from 14 to 36 miles. Options are for cyclers to pedal across 7, 9 or 11 bridges and for walkers to do the same in the Bridge Stride.

Portland Pride Festival has many events that have united the gay, lesbian, bisexual, queer and transgender communities, as well as their friends and families, for more than 40 years. In addition to the Pride Parade on Sunday, the festival offers a full weekend of live entertainment and activities, including a family run/walk, fair and pet parade in downtown's Waterfront Park.

Chamber Music Northwest Pre-concert picnics are a standing tradition among the enthusiastic followers of this five-week annual chamber music series. Since its launch in 1971, the festival has grown into one of the most successful chamber music events in the nation. Due to popular demand, year-round concerts are held at various venues, as well as a CMNW Radio listening pleasure.

Oregon Brewers Festival Craft breweries from around the United States bring their beers to Portland for this four-day festival, one of the nation's longest and best-loved craft beer festivals, which also celebrated 25 years in 2012. More than 80,000 beer fans enjoy the atmosphere — and upwards of 80 beers — at Gov. Tom McCall Waterfront Park during the last full weekend of July. Attend the 9th annual Oregon Brewers Brunch & Parade on Wednesday, July 22 from 9 to 11:30am.

The Bite of Oregon After crossing the Providence Bridge Pedal finish line, the fun continues. All participants receive free admission to The Bite, the premier food and music festival held in Waterfront Park. Savor the culinary creations that abound featuring both local Oregon Chefs and National Celebrity Chefs. Sit back and relax or get up and dance while you enjoy some of Oregon's outstanding craft beers and tasty creations

Hood to Coast Relay, the world's largest relay race, stretches 200 miles from the top of Mount Hood to the Pacific Ocean in Seaside, OR. Not a runner? Participate as a walker in the Portland to Coast Relay. The overnight event(s) culminates in the West Coast's largest beach party and draws more than 12,000 runners and walkers annually.

September

MusicfestNW this annual festival established in 2001 to showcase local musicians, brings in national acts and benefits children's music education in Portland. Downtown becomes a massive block party as wristband wearing attendees check out more than 170 bands at nearly 20 venues over the course of five days.

Feast Portland: A Celebration of Oregon Bounty In September 2012, the city welcomed its first top-tier, nationally recognized food festival. Featured events include classes, tastings, industry panels, parties, gala events and more. With the goals of showcasing local culinary talent and Oregon ingredients the festival brings in internationally acclaimed chefs and culinary professionals from around the world. The title is apropos!

Portland Queer Film Festival, formerly Portland Lesbian and Gay Film Festival This annual festival showcases feature, documentary and short films offering a glimpse into the lives of lesbian, gay, bisexual and transgender people from communities in different parts of the world. The festival attracts thousands of filmgoers during its 10-day run at Northwest Portland's Cinema 21.

The Portland Institute for Contemporary Art's Time-Based Art, TBA Festival draws artists from across the country and around the globe for a convergence of contemporary performance and visual art. The city comes alive with the arts, as installations and live performances fill out theaters, temporary galleries, and unexpected public spaces throughout Portland. From morning workshops to afternoon salons and talks, to evening shows and late-night happenings, "TBA" is an all-hours forum for new ideas and experiences.

October

Wordstock, the largest literary event in the Pacific Northwest, celebrates writing and storytelling. At the core of the festival is the weekend-long Wordstock Book Fair, which includes author readings, meet-and-greet opportunities, discussion panels, a childrens' literature stage (where kids read their creations!) and exhibitors. An annual poetry slam competition and the Oregon Book Awards also fall under Wordstock's umbrella.

Great American Distillers Festival Small distillers from across the U.S. come to Oregon — the mecca of craft distilling — for two days each fall to show off their products and expertise, and discuss the future shape of the craft distilling industry. Sample the country's best spirits and witness lively discussions as well as a mixology contest among top bartenders. This event coincides with Portland Cocktail Week the first cocktail festival “for bartenders, by bartenders,” which is a unique blend of fun and education that attracts more than 1,000 bartenders thirsty for knowledge and to compete in “mix-offs” all over town.

November

Northwest Filmmakers' Festival presents features, documentaries and short films by independent, Northwest film and video makers. The offerings are chosen from more than 400 entries. Past judges have included local luminaries Gus Van Sant, Matt Groening and Todd Haynes. Each year the Festival draws more than 400 entries from filmmakers in Alaska, British Columbia, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington, presenting to over 6,000 attendees. After the Festival, the event lives on in the form of the “Best of the Northwest” touring program, presented at key cultural and educational organizations across the Northwest.

Portland Marathon is consistently ranked as a top national race. Named “Most Walker-Friendly Marathon” by Runner's World magazine, it attracts tens of thousands of spectators and draws participants from around the world. In true Portland fashion, the route features live entertainment galore—72 performers at over 53 locations!

Reel Music Festival For 30 years, this film festival has presented movies about music and musicians of every genre and era—featuring everything from collections of vintage performance clips to new documentary and dramatic films, to cutting-edge music videos and animation. Reel Music embraces films exploring a variety of musical genres—jazz, blues, rock, classical, opera, and avant-garde—and fuses them into a unique cinematic celebration. Spanning several weeks, the festival often features live appearances by musicians and filmmakers.

December

The winter holidays bring out a festive spirit in Portland. Locals and visitors celebrate the season with tax-free shopping downtown on popular shopping streets like Northwest 23rd and North Mississippi, and at the annual selection of “pop-up-shops and the Saturday Market’s Festival of the Last Minute.

And it wouldn’t be the holidays without light displays: from Zoolights featuring over a million LED lights at the Portland Zoo; the Christmas Ships sailing the Willamette River and commanding prime viewing from the warmth of Portland’s many downtown restaurants; to the Festival of Lights at The Grotto, the largest Christmas choral festival in the world; and the quaint Peacock Lane in a southeast Portland neighborhood with each house brilliantly lit. In this microbrew mecca, the annual Holiday Ale Fest fills Pioneer Courthouse Square with revelers looking to taste winter brews, some of which are crafted just for this event. Attendees stay warm and dry under a large clear top tent that covers Pioneer Courthouse Square while allowing for views of the city lights.

Events Around the Region

March/April

Wooden Shoe Tulip Festival is a month-long showcase of more than 40 acres of tulips and daffodils in bloom at the Wooden Shoe Tulip Farm in Woodburn. Weekend events include food, wine, pony rides for the kids, and, of course, tulip viewing. Forty-five minutes from downtown Portland.

Hood River Valley Blossom Festival A drive through the stunning Columbia River Gorge National Scenic Area leads visitors to more than 15,000 acres of fruit trees in full bloom. Although the festival is headquartered near the town of Hood River, additional celebrations occur along the state’s 35-mile Fruit Loop Driving Tour route. Located just an hour and a half from downtown Portland.

North Willamette Wine Trail Weekend The North Willamette Wine Trail Weekend is a self-guided wine-tasting event at more than 20 small wineries located in Oregon’s Washington County, just minutes from Portland. This is the undiscovered Willamette Valley — where owners are winemakers, and you’ll often find them working in their own tasting rooms. For one low price, guests receive a commemorative wine glass; wine tastings—including new releases, reserve label or barrel tastings; food; and entertainment and educational activities at each participating winery. Great fun mixed with breathtaking scenery!

May

Memorial Day Weekend in the Willamette Valley

More than 150 wineries and tasting rooms across the stunning Willamette Valley are open for the holiday weekend. Take this opportunity to visit some of the region's small family-owned wineries rarely open to the public, as well as larger wineries and tasting rooms. Sample from the barrel with winemakers and enjoy specialty food pairings and live music. Take part in a vineyard tour or enjoy a picnic while savoring the region's acclaimed Pinot Noir, Pinot Gris and other wines. Bring canned foods to support the Oregon Food Bank.

June

Festival of Balloons in Tigard Experience the spectacular hot air balloons dotting the morning sky as they make their launch (weather permitting). Sorry, no rides at this event, but lots to see and do at this fundraiser for many non-profit groups in Tigard. Spend the afternoon shopping for arts and crafts, checking out the latest at the business expos, a soccer tournament and listen to live music.

July

International Pinot Noir Celebration More than 60 Pinot Noir wineries from around the world are featured at this event for wine aficionados in McMinnville, located in the heart of the Oregon Wine Country This limited-attendance event (small numbers give attendees more one-on-one time with the vintners) features three days of seminars, tastings, tours and fabulous food paired with, naturally, Pinot Noir. Forty-five minutes from downtown Portland.

August

Pickathon For going on 15 years, the Pickathon Indie-Roots Music Festival has celebrated the music of Americana. Held at the historic Pendarvis Farm, 20 minutes southeast of Portland, this three-day sustainable festival features six stages with alt-country, indie-rock, folk, bluegrass, blues and more.

September

Wild About Game The Pacific Northwest's top chefs, ranchers and meat producers join local butcher/distributor Nicky USA near Mount Hood in a day long celebration of some of the world's finest wild game and poultry. The event includes a culinary marketplace with food and beverage tastings, cooking competitions, and demos from many James Beard Award winning and nominated chefs from Portland restaurants. One hour from downtown Portland.

October

Hood River Valley Harvest Fest For those who attended the Hood River Valley Blossom Festival in April, here's your chance to catch the tail end of the fruit-growing process. The fruit is picked and it's an old-fashioned harvest festival with an array of local talents including: produce and food products; arts and crafts; wine- and beer-tastings; food court; local fruit pies to jams and chocolate covered cherries; smoked salmon; numerous arts and crafts stands; a kids' zone; music all day and entertainment in the evening. One hour and fifteen minutes from downtown Portland.

West Coast Giant Pumpkin Regatta Watch giant pumpkins race across the lake at Tualatin Commons, 25 minutes southwest of Portland, as boaters navigate these oversized gourds toward the finish line! This free, wacky, exciting and entertaining event is the only one of its kind on the West Coast, and has been widely featured in the media including the Wall Street Journal, CNN, the Travel Channel, Better Homes and Gardens, HGTV, and Food Network Magazine.

November

Wine Country Thanksgiving More than 160 wineries and tasting rooms in the Willamette Valley open their doors for special tastings and holiday festivities over Thanksgiving weekend (Friday-Sunday) offering an opportunity to visit some of the region’s small, family-owned wineries that aren’t usually open to the public. Meet winemakers; enjoy specialty food pairings and live music, all while savoring the region’s acclaimed wines.

Art Festivals

First Thursday Downtown Portland Pearl District comes to life the first Thursday of each month between 5pm-8pm when galleries and businesses, including the Pacific Northwest College of Art and the Museum of Contemporary Craft, debut new exhibitions, stay open late and throw a soiree, complete with free wine and snacks and great people watching.

First Friday Portland's Eastside lights up with activity galore every first Friday of the month as galleries, boutiques, eateries, & unique spaces open their doors to promote culture & the arts between 6:00pm-9:00pm. Bring your car and walking shoes—lots to see and do at the many locations.

Last Thursday the end of each month goes out with a bang on Thursday in NE Portland. NE Alberta Street /15th-30th Avenues hosts the largest art event in Portland with a street fair that attracts independent artists and performers from local bands to troupes of acrobats. Buy local art when galleries hold their monthly openings, while restaurants and bars hang new artwork for sale between 6:00 pm-9:30 pm

Art in the Pearl Labor Day Weekend helps ease us back to school with the Pearl's Annual Fine Arts & Crafts Festival. People of all ages enjoy art, theater, music, and hands-on activities in the NW Park blocks between W Burnside & NW Glisan @ NW 8th Avenue from 10am-6pm.

Portland Rose Festival During May and June, Portlanders citywide revel in their celebration of roses. Experience the wide variety of events highlighted by the Grand Floral Parade—rivalled only by the Pasadena Rose Parade.

Portland Events Calendar helps you check out the best festivals, fun things to do, weekend street fairs, kids activities, and free entertainment in Portland.

Travel Portland provides you with even more events—including parks and gardens; microbreweries; tours & itineraries; as well as upcoming and ongoing events in and beyond Portland.

Recreation

Portland is home to both a sprawling urban wilderness — Forest Park — and the world’s smallest dedicated park, Mill Ends. There are more than 200 parks within city limits, from forests to marshlands, trails to skateboarding rails and home to a network of summer concerts. PDX has bike lanes galore and numerous walking paths. Below are descriptions for some of the major parks and links to other recreational locations and activities. Additionally, Oregon is home to beautiful public access beaches.

Downtown

Director Park, a former parking lot, is Downtown Portland’s newest park. Located just a block from Pioneer Courthouse Square, Director Park features a café, ample outdoor seating and a fountain, and plays host to occasional events in the summer.

Mills End Park at 24 inches in diameter, is the world’s smallest dedicated park. Located in the median of Southwest Naito Parkway at Taylor Street, its story began when a journalist for the Oregon Journal, Dick Fagan, got tired of looking at the ugly pothole below his office window. He decided to plant flowers in the hole and name it Mill Ends Park. To generate interest in this tiny green space, Fagan centered many newspaper stories about the capers of a fictitious park resident, a leprechaun named Patrick O’Toole.

Pioneer Courthouse Square, located in the heart of downtown Portland, is affectionately known as the city’s “living room.” Once a grim parking structure, the square is now a thriving, brick-lined, urban park and the single most-visited site in Oregon, attracting more than 9.5 million visitors annually. The square’s on-site resources include the Portland Visitor Information Center and TriMet’s bus and light rail ticket office. The square is also one of Portland’s leading outdoor venues, hosting 300 events each year, from large-scale concerts to cultural festivals. The Portland Farmers Market operates in the Square every Monday from 10 a.m.-2 p.m., June-October.

Waterfront Park once the site of a freeway, the Tom McCall Waterfront Park is a downtown riverfront park popular for jogging, in-line skating and cooling off in the Salmon Street Springs, a fountain whose water patterns change with the city's mood. The park bears the name of former Oregon Governor Tom McCall, a staunch advocate of recycling, environmental preservation and urban planning. This

1.5-mile stretch of green, along the Willamette River, is home to many annual events, including the Portland Rose Festival, the Oregon Brewers Festival and the Waterfront Blues Festival. The Japanese American Historical Plaza is located at the north end of the park.

Pearl District

Jamison Square opened in 2002, making it older than its average attendee on summer days, when it becomes a no-holds-barred kids' park featuring a gentle fountain and generous space for wading. Adults will appreciate the convenience of the Pearl District park's location on the Portland Streetcar line and the impressive public art — modern “totem poles” designed by Kenny Scharf; one of many “fountain parks” in Portland.

Tanner Springs is a living example of Portland's eco-consciousness: a thriving wetland in the heart of the urban Pearl District neighborhood.

Old Town/Chinatown

Lan Su Chinese Garden, a year-round wonder, is an authentically built Ming Dynasty style garden. Covered walkways, bridges, open colonnades, pavilions and a richly planted landscape frame Zither Lake, creating views that are never twice the same. This urban oasis of tranquil beauty and harmony, built by Suzhou artisans, will inspire and engage all who visit. Public tours and audio tours are available, and a teahouse serving light snacks and traditional teas is located within the garden.

West Side

Forest Park, located northwest of downtown, an 8-mile-long “forest in the city,” covers 5,156 acres and comprises most of the trees that you see when you look at the West Hills of Portland. In addition to providing a respite from urban life, Forest Park supports more than 112 bird and 62 mammal species and acts as a natural air purifier. Forest Park’s 70 miles of trails are popular with runners, equestrians, hikers and cyclists alike. Dogs on leashes are allowed. The 30-mile Wildwood Trail connects Forest Park, the Audubon Society Sanctuary, Pittock Mansion and Washington Park and is part of the region’s 40-Mile Loop system.

Hoyt Arboretum, nearly 1,000 species of trees and shrubs — more than in any other arboretum in the country — are showcased on 185 acres of hilly terrain within Washington Park. An interpretive center offers restrooms, maps and brochures and a gift shop. The 21 trails of Hoyt Arboretum cover 12 miles; two miles of trail are suitable for wheelchairs, baby strollers and visitors who appreciate firm footing.

International Rose Test Garden Portland is home to the oldest official continuously operated public rose test gardens in the United States. Located just minutes from downtown Portland in Washington Park, the International Rose Test Garden features more than 10,000 rose bushes, spectacular views of the city and an on-site gift shop. Local tip: During summer, visit in the early evening when it’s cooler and less crowded. Free tours are offered from June through September on Tuesdays at 11:30 a.m. and 1 p.m., and on Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays at 1 p.m.

Portland Japanese Garden tucked into the scenic west hills of Portland above Washington Park, is a haven of tranquil beauty, which has been proclaimed one of the most authentic Japanese gardens outside of Japan. Encompassing 5.5 acres and five separate garden styles, the garden includes an authentic Japanese Tea House, meandering streams, intimate walkways, and an unsurpassed view of Mount Hood. Guided tours are included with cost of admission.

Pioneer Courthouse Square, located in the heart of downtown Portland, the city's "living room" hosts events like the Portland Farmers Market, MusicfestNW and the Holiday Ale Festival.

Tryon Creek State Park, located 15 minutes south of downtown, Tryon Creek State Park is Portland’s only state park and features miles of trails under a mixed forest canopy. The 645-acre park’s namesake Tryon Creek is home to a run of steelhead trout. In addition to 3.5 miles of horse trails and a 3-mile paved bicycle path, the park has 8 miles of hiking trails, including the .35-mile, fully accessible Trillium Trail, with paved pathways, drinking fountains, resting benches and viewing decks. The Nature Center provides interpretive displays and restrooms. Dogs are allowed on leashes. No picking or stepping on the fragile Trillium flowers!

Washington Park, located atop the hills west of downtown, is one of the oldest, best-loved and most-well-used parks in Portland. Its grounds include the International Rose Test Garden, the Japanese Garden, Hoyt Arboretum, the Oregon Zoo, the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, the Holocaust Memorial, the World Forestry Center and the Children’s Museum.

East Side (THIS SECTION LOST ITS HEADING)

Experience nature not far from the city's hustle and bustle at these wildlife preserves.

Eastbank Esplanade, the Vera Katz Eastbank Esplanade, is 1.5-miles of fun with a pedestrian/bicycling trail that extends along the east bank of downtown Portland's Willamette River between the Steel Bridge and the Hawthorne Bridge. Highlights include a 1,200-foot floating walkway (the longest in the United States), an adjoining public boat dock, public art and places to stop, relax and enjoy.

With access from four bridges, cyclists, joggers and walkers can enjoy a complete three-mile loop that offers unparalleled views of downtown Portland and the river. The entire route is ADA compliant.

Crystal Springs Rhododendron Garden

Seven acres of grounds at the Crystal Springs Rhododendron Garden boast an outstanding collection of rare species and hybrid rhododendrons, azaleas, deciduous and coniferous trees. Formal landscapes and more natural areas along the springs provide plenty of birding, especially during spring and winter months when huge flocks of waterfowl and gulls congregate on the artificial pond. Restrooms and wheelchair-accessible paved trails are available. Open daily, admission charged only from March through Labor Day; lots of nooks for sitting and contemplation.

Peninsula Park & Ladd's Circle Park

Looking for more roses? Peninsula Park's Rose Garden in North Portland has 6,500 rose plantings along with play equipment, tennis courts, soccer field, pool, and a gazebo for concerts and weddings. Ladd's Circle Park & Rose Gardens, in a historic Southeast Portland neighborhood, features 3,000 roses on less than 2 acres! Truly a circle, your senses will be overcome with the beautiful intensity of the roses.

The Grotto

A peaceful oasis in the midst of the city, The Grotto is set among 62 acres of botanical gardens. As an internationally renowned Catholic sanctuary, The Grotto offers a place of quiet reflection for all people. More than 100 beautiful statues and shrines are nestled among flower-lined pathways winding under towering firs. Peaceful ponds, spectacular cliff-side vistas and award-winning architecture offer inspiration for all who visit this natural gallery in the woods. Gardens and gift shop are open daily; group tours and daily Mass are also offered.

Open year-round; hours vary. There is no charge to see the lower-level gardens and structures. To access the upper gardens, each visitor must purchase an elevator token.

Leach Botanical Garden

The nine-acre Leach Botanical Garden boasts more than 2,000 species, hybrids and cultivars, including Northwest native plants, as well as viburnums, camellias and azaleas of the southeastern United States.

The garden has an interpretive center, restrooms, trails and wildlife viewing areas. Limited wheelchair accessibility; pets not allowed; closed Mondays and some holidays.

Mt Tabor Park makes Portland one of only three cities in the continental United States to contain an extinct volcano within its boundaries (the others are Bend, OR., and Jackson, MS). Established in 1909, Mt. Tabor Park was named to the National Register of Historic Places in 2004. Three municipal reservoirs are at the heart of the 196-acre park, which also features trails popular with both bicyclists and pedestrians. The cinder cone's 630-foot elevation affords breathtaking views of downtown Portland and Mount Hood.

Mt Hood takes your breath away and dominates the view as you gaze eastward anywhere in the city. Only twenty miles from Portland, Mt Hood has snow, somewhere on its crest, all year-round and provides great skiing pleasure in the winter at its many resorts.

Oaks Bottom Wildlife Refuge, a 140-acre wetland, is just east of the Willamette River in Sellwood, and a birdwatchers' paradise. Many species are attracted to the marshes of Portland's first wildlife refuge, including the city's official bird, the great blue heron.

Springwater Corridor, a testament to Oregonians' zest for recycling, is one of Portland's most notable bike developments. This former rail corridor was reborn as an alternative transportation and recreational trail that winds east for 21 miles from Portland to the town of Boring, OR. The corridor will ultimately lead south to Estacada and into the Mt. Hood National Forest.

Audubon Society of Portland The 4.5 miles of maintained trails at the Audubon Society of Portland, a 143-acre wildlife nature sanctuary, take visitors through a mixed coniferous forest, streams, ponds and native vegetation, all within minutes of downtown Portland. The Audubon House features an interpretive center, nature store with products for wildlife and nature viewing as well as products from local artists.

Jackson Bottom Wetland Preserve This 650-acre wildlife preserve west of Portland in Hillsboro, OR features expansive wetlands and an abundance of wildlife viewing opportunities. Jackson Bottom Wetland Preserve amenities include a community center with interpretive displays and restrooms, a wheelchair-accessible wildlife-viewing platform and additional trails. Free and open from dawn to dusk.

Sauvie Island on the outskirts of Portland in the Columbia River, is a rural oasis, where visitors can pay to pick seasonal fruits and vegetables or sample local treats from field stands and farmers' markets. Parks, beaches and wetlands attract wildlife and nature lovers alike. Fall brings bright colors, pumpkin patches and even a corn maze to weave through.

Tualatin River National Wildlife Refuge is a place to discover an ever-changing panorama of wildlife. As the seasons change, so do the wildlife viewing opportunities. Located on the Pacific Flyway, the Refuge is an important stopover where migrating waterfowl, songbirds, and shorebirds stop to rest, refuel, and raise their young.

Smith and Bybee Wetlands Natural Area, the largest protected wetlands within a U.S. city, sits on 205-acres and serves as a waterway haven for many animal species and heaven for nature-seeking hikers, bikers and kayakers. Composed of two lakes (the Smith and the Bybee), this public parkland is home to beavers, black-tailed deer and even bald eagles, which can be seen from two wildlife-viewing platforms.

African Community

Activities & Events

IRCO Calendar of Events, the Immigrant and Refugee Community Organization, IRCO, was established in 1976 in Portland to provide services for immigrants and refugees from all over the world—Africa, Asia, the Caribbean, Europe and the Middle East. It offers a wide variety of services and programs for these multiple communities.

Cascade Festival of African Films hosted by Portland Community College, has presented a wide selection of feature and documentary films from the African continent. Guest appearances by renowned directors such as Obi Emelony, Director of Last Flight to Abuja, and Apolline Traore, Director of Moi. (February)

Activities and Events

Cinco de Mayo Fiesta celebrates the victory of a small band of Mexican patriots over the occupational forces of Napoleon III of France on May 5, 1862. This four-day festival, held at Gov. Tom McCall Waterfront Park, features traditional music, dance, food, crafts, the Cinco de Mayo Run/Walk and guest performers from Guadalajara, Portland's Sister City.

Día de los Muertos, The Day of the Dead, November 2nd, derives from ancient Aztec festivities honoring children and the dead. This festive occasion acknowledges the cycle of life by visiting graves of relatives, honoring their memory and exchanging gifts that have skull or skeleton motifs. If you find a plastic toy skeleton when you bite into a piece of pan de muerto, bread of the dead, you'll have good luck.

Religious celebrations are a big part of Roman Catholic life, including Las Posadas, The Inns. Beginning December 16th, this celebration lasts nine evenings, recreating the journey from inn to inn of Joseph and Mary. Each evening of singing ends with a meal of tamales and atole, a warm drink.

Teatro Milago, "Miracle Theater," Oregon's only Hispanic theater company, performs the works of Spanish-language playwrights in bi-lingual productions, along with two touring companies (one for dance) that travel throughout the Western United States.

Native American

Activities and Events

The Portland Art Museum displays traditional carving, basketry, paintings and sculpture from tribes throughout the Northwest. The museum's Native American Art Council hosts lectures and public displays by local and regional artists throughout the year.

The Spirit Mountain Casino and Resort was created to enhance economic self-sufficiency opportunities for the Confederated Tribes of Grand Ronde, its members, and surrounding communities. It promotes economic diversification by the Tribes to support a variety of housing, educational and cultural programs under the direction of the Tribal Council. In addition, the Spirit Mountain Community Fund supports social service programs throughout Oregon.

The Oregon Historical Society houses one of the largest photo archives west of the Mississippi, documenting the changing landscape of the West over the last two centuries. The museum is also home to a vast array of Native American basketry, beadwork and carvings.

Explore tribally owned museums such as the Tamástslikt Cultural Institute on the Umatilla Reservation (210 miles east of Portland in Pendleton, OR) or the Museum at Warm Springs on the Warm Springs Reservation (100 miles southeast of Portland.)

Kah-Nee-Ta Resort on the Warm Springs Reservation offers a variety of accommodations such as rooms with private balconies, teepees, a full-service RV Park and meeting space to host personal or corporate events. Enjoy 300 days of sun (!) in Oregon's High Desert, on the other side of the State.

JANUARY

The Winter Powwow at Portland Community College's Sylvania Campus features drum groups and dancers from across the region and attracts more than 1,000 participants each year. It supports the PCC Native American Scholarship Fund and provides Native American businesses with vendor space.

MAY

The annual Naimuma Traditional Powwow sponsored by the United Indian Students in Higher Education is held at Portland State University in downtown Portland each spring.

JUNE

The Bow & Arrow Culture Club's Annual City of Roses Delta Park Powwow & Encampment, held in North Portland's East Delta Park, includes competition dancing, owl dance and special dancing exhibitions; as well as art and craft vendors; fry bread and other food booths; traditional Native American games; a Natural High Fun Run/Walk for Sobriety and more.

The Tribal Food Summit held at Portland State University, brings together Native local food gatherers, stewards, producers, manufacturers and growers—connecting emerging youth leaders with tribal Elders.

Trading At the River Conference and Trade Show Modeled after traditional gatherings, held at Lewis & Clark College, brings together old ways and new opportunities. This conference offers workshops on substantial business issues and enables Native American entrepreneurs to form new business relationships and partnerships. It also features a Native Marketplace where vendors promote their business, network and sell their products or services.

SEPTEMBER

The Neerchokikoo Honoring Powwow honors members of the community for their contribution to the important work that the Native American Youth and Family Center, NAYA, does to enhance the lives of youth, families and Elders. Since 2010, the powwow has drawn friends and families from within the Native community, welcoming the public to gather in festivities celebrating Native culture and tradition. This time is special for many as they share and practice Native dances, music, art, food and community. NAYA celebrates the tradition of powwow with dance competitions for men and women of all ages. The Tiny Tots exhibition dancing showcases the youth of the Native community. Throughout the day dancers of all generations step out to display their talent and pride in Native Indian traditions.

OCTOBER

The Northwest Indian Storytelling Festival celebrates traditional storytelling in the Pacific Northwest. Among Native people throughout North America, winter is storytelling time. During the long nights of winter, treasured elders pass down from generation to generation wisdom and knowledge; traditional cultural values; spiritual qualities; oral history; and prophecy. This festival features some of the Northwest's most gifted tribal tellers; as well as tribal drumming and singing; and opening prayer and commentary by treasured Native Elders. 2014's event was hosted by the Indigenous Ways of Knowing, IWOK, program at Lewis & Clark College.

Founded in 2013, the Jim Pepper Native Arts Festival honors the memory of Jim Pepper, a contemporary Native American jazz musician raised in Portland who was an innovator in jazz-rock fusion as well as world music. The lineup features his collaborators from far and near.

Dancing in the Square Powwow

Held in downtown Portland's Pioneer Courthouse Square, the accessible Dancing in the Square Powwow is presented by the Northwest Portland Area Indian Health Board.

NOVEMBER

University of Portland Pow Wow was launched in 2013 by the Native American Appreciation and MECHA Club, Movimiento Estudiantil de Chicanos de Aztlan, in honor of Native American Heritage Month. The event, held at the University of Portland, celebrates Native culture with Native and Aztec dancers, singers, drummers and vendors, while encouraging higher education within the Native community.

The Native American Youth and Family Center's, NAYA's Annual Auction and Gala is held at the Portland Art Museum in honor of Native American Heritage Month. Over the last decade, NAYA's community partners, tribal leaders, elected officials and those dedicated to the educational and life success of Native youth, have gathered to celebrate community and a shared history. The event includes a traditional Native American meal and special performance, as well as live and silent auctions. Auction items include valuable Native artwork from across the nation, fine antique baskets, original paintings, prints, hand created jewelry and one-of-a-kind travel experiences.

DECEMBER

Join Native business vendors and artisans from around the Pacific Northwest at the NAYA Marketplace as they showcase their goods, including beadwork, jewelry, pottery, regalia, woodwork, flower arrangements, naturopathic items and traditional foods.

NARA New Year's Eve Sobriety Powwow is an annual powwow sponsored by the Native American Rehabilitation Association of the Northwest, NARA.

The Center for Native American Art at the Portland Art Museum houses sculpture, beadwork from the Great Plains, basketry and masterpieces of Tsimshian carvings. These are but a sampling of the nearly 4,000 Indian art pieces that make up the collection from more than 200 indigenous groups from throughout the Northwest represented in this remarkable collection. The pieces are housed almost entirely in the museum's new Hoffman Wing.

Oregon Historical Society, regularly exhibits artifacts representing Oregon's Northern Paiute, Tillamook and Wasco tribal groups.

Media and More
