Course Overview
NOTE: For core classes, all elements of this section (except for name and contact information) are the same.
Course Title: English 3-4
Instructor Name: Fanny Ortega	Contact Info: fortega@pps.net
Grade Level(s): Sophomores
Credit Type: (i.e. "science", "elective") English	# of credits per semester:1
Prerequisites (if applicable): English 1-2
General Course Description: English 3-4 is designed for students to continue their exploration of a variety of written, audio and visual works by global authors and creators in order to improve communication, writing, reading and critical thinking skills. The overarching theme this year is: Differing perspectives and how it ultimately affects relations. This curriculum has been developed in order to further prepare students for their ongoing acquisition of English that can be applied in a variety of professions. We will focus on looking at the society that immediately surrounds us, as well as others that do not immediately affect us by reading a wide array of texts.
Prioritized National/State Standards: RI/L 10.2 Determine and analyze central ideas of literature and informational text RL 10.1 Cite strong and thorough textual evidence to support analysis of what the text says explicitly as well as inferences drawn from the text. W.10.2: Write informative/explanatory texts to examine and convey complex ideas, concepts, and information clearly and accurately through the effective selection, organization, and analysis of content. Teaching for Tolerance Identity 3: I know that all my group identities and the intersection of those identities create unique aspects of who I am and that this is true for other people too. Justice 13: I can explain the short and long-term impact of biased words and behaviors and unjust practices, laws and institutions that limit the rights and freedoms of people based on their identity groups. Action 17: I take responsibility for standing up to exclusion, prejudice and injustice. Diversity 7: I can accurately and respectfully describe ways that people (including myself) are similar to and different from each other and others in their identity groups.

Classroom norms and expectations: Distance Learning Norms

- When you enter a live meeting, please keep your mic muted until you are called on or asked to participate in a smaller breakout session.
- Do not use the chat to comment on topics that we are not currently discussing in a live meeting.

For Example:

DO NOT use chat to tell your friend they have a cute shirt on or their hair looks good today or to make a rude or snarky comment.

DO use chat to ask a clarifying question about the lesson for the morning or to praise your classmates on a job well done when answering a question or sharing an opinion about the class topic or reading for the day.

- If you have a question that you believe will benefit the whole group, please use the hand raising feature so that I can call on you. Also, please use the hand raising feature when we are having a group discussion, so that we can hear each other and not talk over one another.
- If you feel comfortable, please turn your video on. It's nice to have a few faces to look at while I'm talking or teaching a lesson. It also helps

Assignment Norms

- Assignments should be submitted on their due date. If you do not submit on a due date, you will get a reminder from me, and you have a week to turn in an assignment before it is a zero in the grade book.
- If you need more than a week, then you need to pre-arrange it with me.
- If I believe you need to revise an assignment, I will let you know and ask you to resubmit with revisions made within a week of getting the assignment back.
- If you are not asked to revise an assignment, but would like to revise an assignment, these are the guidelines:
 - You received an 85 or below on your assignment
 - You ask me in advance
 - You turn it in within a week of when it was originally returned to you graded.

Personal Statement and other needed info

This is an unprecedented time, and life is not “business as usual.” We are all learning a new normal, and remote learning is a new normal we are all being asked to embrace. I understand that there are many challenges and obstacles associated with distance learning, and that many of us cannot wait for the day when we are back in a classroom, learning face to face and socializing with our friends and peers. However, for right now, that is on hold, and my goal this semester is to ensure that I meet you where you are, provide you with enriching learning opportunities, and build a virtual community. I understand that everyone is dealing with their own set of circumstances; therefore, the goal for this semester is to work through this together and to figure out a way to make it work. Key during this time is to communicate. You can reach me at fortega@pps.net or through Remind. If you have any questions or concerns about Remind, please let me know. I look forward to getting to know all of you this semester.
